GARAGE DOOR

American Garage Door is Colorado's leading manufacturer in custom garage doors. Founded by Colorado natives, American Garage Door is a family owned and operated business which has three generations of garage door expertise. All of our custom garage doors are manufactured in Wheat Ridge, Colorado by master carpenters that have years of building experience. By choosing American Garage Door, you will receive the highest quality garage doors and customer service at a value that leads the industry.

We manufacture custom garage doors that will compliment any style of home-- from our Eldora and Loveland models that enhance the look of modern homes, to our Crested Butte and Wolf Creek models that add to the rustic feel of traditional mountain homes. All of our custom garage doors are fully customizable and can be built with a variety of wood species, metals, glass and window options, decorative hardware, powder coated track and hardware, as well as stain and finishing to assure that you are receiving a garage door that is as unique as the residence in which it is being installed.

From manufacturing to installation, American Garage Door will provide you with everything you need to create the perfect garage door for your application. We look forward to working with you, and we appreciate the opportunity to provide you with all of your garage door needs.

Glass Options

Adding windows to your custom garage door is a nice upgrade which can add to the overall look of the garage door, as well as be a functional upgrade in letting light inside the garage. We offer insulated, tempered, textured, as well as colored glass.

Decorative Hardware

Adding decorative hardware to your custom garage door can enhance the overall look of the garage door, as well as the residence. We have a large amount of designs and colors to choose from which enables you to add your personal touch to each door.

Powder Coating

All custom garage doors have the option of having the track and hardware powder coated. This includes the garage door track, hinges, support struts, and other small parts that add a truly finished look inside the garage.

Stain and Finishing

All custom garage doors can be pre-stained and finished by American Garage Door. American Garage Door uses top quality finishing products to ensure a beautiful and rich finish.
